NO. 42

GEO. L. PERHAM, WELL KNOWN IN THIS CITY, DEAD

Died—In Hillsborough, October 9, 1915, George L., husband of Jennie M. Perham, and father of Ina C. and George Sheldon Perham, a native of Ludlow, Vt., aged 54 years and 13 days.

George L. Perham, a well-known citizen of this county many years and who resided at Baden crossing with his family a long time, died at the family residence in Hillsborough last Saturday evening.

The announcement of his death came as a surprise to his many friends in this city, although it was known that he had been seriously ill several days previously.

At the time of his death, Mr. Perham was president of the City Dairy Delivery Company in San Francisco and one of the San Mateo county highway commissioners. He was also a member of the board of governors of the San Mateo county development association.

His daughter, Ina, has been drawing teacher at the San Mateo high school, and his son, Sheldon, has been attending Stanford University at Palo Alto.

The funeral services took place at the chapel of Mount Olivet Cemetery at 2:30 o'clock last Monday afternoon, at which relatives and many friends attended.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB.

Last Thursday evening the Woman's Club of this city held a very enjoyable card party in the basement of the Metropolitan Hotel. There was a very good attendance. Light refreshments were served during the evening. The object of the party was to raise funds for charitable purposes.

Next Thursday the Woman's Club will have a Founders' Day breakfast. As the basement of the Metropolitan Hotel is undergoing repairs, it will be held in Lodge Hall, Metropolitan building, at noon. In the afternoon an election of officers will be held for the ensuing term.

CITY BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

The city board of trustees did not hold a meeting last Monday on account of there not being a quorum present.

The season opened yesterday for duck, quail and rabbits. All the guns which have been carefully laid away with plugged barrels have come into action again by the sharpshooters of this city. A. P. Scott, A. McSweeney, Dr. F. S. Dolley, Emile Daneri and Assessor Hayward of Redwood City were on deck at La Honda yesterday, each expecting to get the limit on quail and rabbit.

A dollar saved is not a dollar gained.
It is more.
Queer arithmetic? No.
The spirit, the sentiment, the inspiration that prompts the saving of the dollar is of infinite value. It means that a thinking-cap has been worn, that stock-taking has been carried out, and that right conclusions have been reached.

WAR EXPERIENCES OF LOCAL WOMAN AND DAUGHTER

Mrs. H. J. Vandenbos and daughter, Adrienne, returned to this city a short time ago from Brussels, Belgium, where Miss Adrienne had been studying music at the Royal Conservatory for the past five years.

In speaking of the experiences of herself and daughter since the European war started, she said the other day:

"Both of us were in Brussels when the war broke out, and remained there until our departure for America a few weeks ago.

"The Belgian people are very bitter against the Germans and on the 21st day of July, this year, which is the national day of Belgium, the Germans feared there might be some kind of demonstration and issued strict orders to the people. At 7 o'clock in the evening everybody was ordered into the house, the street cars were stopped and the cafes and saloons closed. Dozens of German soldiers patrolled the streets as a safeguard against disturbances. Sentinels were placed on the streets and at 6 o'clock at night all lights were ordered out and stores closed.

Clocks Set to German Time.

"Just to show how strict the Germans were, let me tell you about one order they issued. There is a difference of one hour in the time at Berlin and the time at Brussels, but when the Germans took possession of the city they issued an order that all clocks should be set according to German time. Any one found violating this rule was heavily fined, sometimes as high as 1000 marks.

"During our stay in Brussels a concert was given for the benefit of the relief fund and my daughter was asked to play the harp. The hall was profusely decorated in American flags and red, white and blue bunting and photographs of President Wilson, Roosevelt and Herbert Hoover, chairman of the American relief committee, were hanging in conspicuous places. Just before my daughter went out on the stage, the manager announced that she was an American girl, and when she appeared a moment later she was given a tremendous ovation. Some of the women in the audience were weeping because they were overcome by their gratitude for America.

"Everywhere in Brussels one sees people in mourning. I venture to say that eight out of every ten persons on the streets are in mourning for some dead relative or close friend. As a mark of appreciation

NINE-INCH MILL WILL SOON START AT STEEL PLANT

The new nine-inch mill at the steel plant will start on or about the 20th or 25th of this month.

The new mill will greatly increase the output of that plant.

The open-hearth will be increased to the extent of 400 tons per twenty-four hours.

The new mill will require a great many additional men, who will be brought from all over the United States.

The steel plant has contracts for all steel in stock and all they can turn out for a long time to come.

For American assistance, many of the women and girls wear the stars and stripes on their waists and the men wear small American flags in their buttonholes.

Critical Food Situation in Belgium.

"The food situation in Belgium has been critical. In spite of the relief work, everything has soared up to a price which is almost prohibitive. The commonest kind of beefsteak is 60 cents a pound and everything else is correspondingly high.

"When we left Brussels on August 26th, everybody who learned of our destination begged us to tell everybody in America how thankful they were. 'Thank them for us. Thank them for us,' is the way they expressed their gratitude.

"Leaving Brussels on the train, we passed Rombaut, the Cathedral of Malines, and could see where it had been shelled by the Germans. On both sides were scenes of desolation. Many of the houses were in such bad shape that we wondered how the people would ever live through the winter.

"At Antwerp our trunks were opened and we were searched. At Essen, the frontier of Holland, we were again searched.

"On August 28th we sailed from Rotterdam on the steamer Ryndam, but were held up in the channel for twenty-four hours by a British cruiser, which boarded us and examined our cargo and passenger list. Finally the British commander authorized our vessel to proceed, but first they blew up a mine in order to let us pass through the mine field. Then they sent a guide ship to escort us safely through the mine zone."

Martha Hedman in "The Cub"

The World Film Corporation presents Martha Hedman in a five-part William A. Brady photoplay, "The Cub," based on the stage offering of the same name. Thompson Buchanan, who wrote "Life," was the author.

Miss Hedman, who had a distinguished stage career in Sweden, England and the United States, is one of the numerous clever and beautiful actresses who owed her principal opportunities to the late Charles Frohman, who brought her to this country. This is her first appearance in motion pictures.

The story of "The Cub" is a highly diverting one. At the time of some bitter feuds in Kentucky a newspaper editor desired a special story, and assigned a new, young reporter to the job. He, clever and debonair, promptly got himself in a terrible mess by falling in love with one girl who was prominent on one side of the feud, and getting himself fallen in love with by another girl who was on the opposite side.

The result, though disastrous to him, was provocative of a series of highly diverting but dangerous situations, which were finally cleared up by the intervention of the militia.

John Hines, an extremely clever comedian who has made a great reputation for himself in World Film features, has a part in which he fairly revels as the cub. There are other highly finished players in the cast.

"The Cub" will be presented at the Royal Theatre on Sunday, October 17th.

On Monday a four-reel Chaplin comedy review will be shown, entitled "The Mix-Up."

Tuesday, official pictures authorized by the Austrian and Italian general staff of "Italy at War with Austria," will be shown.

Wednesday, Bert Levy tryouts will appear.

On Thursday a sensational race picture, "His Last Dollar," will be shown.

On Friday the first installment of the great American serial, "Neal of the Navy," which is complete in fourteen episodes, will be shown, also the first of the "Who Pays" series of three-act dramas, each a complete story.

Saturday Bessie Barriscale will appear in a Paramount feature, "The Rose of the Rancho."

POTATO RECIPES

Simple Directions for Preparing This Wholesome Vegetable in Many Ways.

The following recipes for potatoes, prepared by the office of home economics for club work by the department, show a few of the many uses of the wholesome potato:

Potato Soup.

- 3 potatoes, of medium size.
- 4 cups skim milk.
- 1 small onion.
- 4 tablespoons butter.
- 2 tablespoons flour.
- 1½ teaspoonfuls salt.
- ¼ teaspoon celery salt, or
- 2 tablespoons celery, cut in small pieces.
- ½ teaspoon chopped parsley.
- Little cayenne pepper or paprika.

Boil the potatoes and when soft rub them through a sieve. Slice the onion and scald this and the celery with the milk. Take out the onion and add the milk slowly to the potatoes. Melt two tablespoons butter, into which mix the dry ingredients, and stir into the boiling soup. Boil one minute; strain, add the remainder of the butter, and sprinkle with the parsley when ready to serve. The parsley improves the looks and adds a little to the flavor, but may be omitted if this is more convenient.

Boiled Potatoes.

Select potatoes of uniform size. Wash, pare, and drop at once into cold water to prevent them becoming discolored. Cook in boiling salted water until soft, but not until broken. For six medium-sized potatoes allow one tablespoon salt and boiling water enough to cover. When the potatoes are done, drain off the water, place the uncovered kettle on the back of the stove, and let them steam until serving time.

When potatoes are boiled with their jackets on, they should be washed and a narrow band of skin cut from the center. This tends to let the steam escape more rapidly and renders the potato more mealy and palatable. It also makes it easier to remove the skin. Potatoes boiled in this way are palatable for several hours if kept hot on the back of the stove.

Baked Potatoes.

Select smooth, medium-sized potatoes. Wash, using a vegetable brush. Bake in a hot oven for about forty-five minutes, or until soft. Remove from the oven, break the skin slightly to let the steam escape, and serve at once. When potatoes are baked properly they are commonly said to be especially wholesome. However, they are better cooked in boiling water than baked in a slow oven.

Stuffed Potatoes.

A nice way to vary baked potatoes is to cut a slice from the top of each and scrape out the inside. Mash, season with salt, pepper, chopped parsley (if liked), and butter, and heat in a little hot milk; add two well-beaten whites of eggs. Refill the skins, sprinkle with grated cheese, and bake in a hot oven about six minutes.

Mashed Potatoes.

Force five hot boiled potatoes through a potato ricer or a colander (coarse strainer). Add two tablespoons of butter, one teaspoon salt, a little pepper, and one-third cup of hot milk; beat with a fork until creamy. Reheat, and serve in a hot vegetable dish. This quantity is sufficient for a family of four.

Riced Potatoes.

Force hot boiled potatoes through a potato ricer or a coarse strainer into a hot dish in which they are to be served. Mashed and riced potatoes may be browned by placing the dish in the oven for a few minutes.

Scalloped Potatoes.

Wash and pare potatoes; let them soak for a half hour, and cut in one-fourth inch slices. Butter a baking dish, put in a layer of the sliced potatoes, sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with flour, and dot over with one-half tablespoonful of butter. (A little grated cheese may be sprinkled over each layer if desired.) Repeat until the baking dish is nearly filled, then cover with hot milk. Bake 1½ hours in a moderate oven, or place on the back of the stove and cook slowly.

Saratoga Chips.

Wash and pare the potatoes. Cut in thin slices (using vegetable slicer preferably) and drop at once into cold water. Let soak two hours, changing water two or three times; drain, drop into boiling water, and boil one or two minutes. Dip out with skimmer and plunge into cold water again. Take from the water, dry between towels, and fry in deep fat until light brown. Drain on brown paper and sprinkle with salt. Plunging the potatoes into hot water to swell and boiling them for a minute or two causes the starch particles to swell and become set. They will, therefore, absorb very little fat, and are more crisp and palatable than when dropped at once into deep fat.

Creamed Potatoes.

There are several different ways in which creamed potatoes may be prepared. (1) Freshly boiled or cold boiled potatoes may be cut into small cubes and served heated in cream sauce. (2) Wash, pare, and cut potatoes into small cubes. Put into frying pan with a few slices of onion cut up very fine, and parboil ten minutes. Pour off water. Add one tablespoon butter, seasoning of salt and pepper, and milk enough to cover. Cook for fifteen or twenty minutes, or until the potatoes are well done and the sauce thick and creamy. It is necessary to stir the potatoes frequently to prevent their sticking. The starch in the potatoes thickens the sauce.

French Fried Potatoes.

Wash, pare, and cut into eighth lengthwise. Soak in cold water one hour; drain, and dry between towels. Fry in deep fat, which must not be too hot. Drain on brown paper and sprinkle with salt.

Shoestring Potatoes.

Potatoes cut in long, narrow strips and prepared by the above recipe are called Julienne or shoestring potatoes.

Panned Potatoes.

Cut cold boiled potatoes into quarter-inch slices; dredge lightly with flour and fry in pan with a little butter. When light brown, heap on side of pan; let stand a few minutes, then loosen with a knife and turn out on a platter in much the same way that an omelet is taken out. Sprinkle with salt and serve at once.

Hashed Brown Potatoes.

Cut cold boiled potatoes into small pieces (two cupfuls), season with salt and pepper, cook three minutes in one-third cup bacon drippings, stirring constantly. Let stand a few seconds to brown underneath; fold like an omelet, and serve on a hot platter.

Pan Fried or Sautéed Potatoes.

Slice cold boiled potatoes in quarter-inch pieces, season with salt and pepper, an abrown on both sides in well-greased frying pan.

Potato Salad.

Cut cold boiled potatoes into half-inch cubes and season with salt and pepper, or a few drops of onion juice if desired. Heap in a mound in a salad dish, garnish around edge with a circle of lettuce and hard-boiled eggs, and pour over all a French dressing made as follows:

- ½ teaspoon salt.
- ¼ teaspoon cayenne.
- 2 tablespoons vinegar.
- 4 tablespoons olive oil.
- Little onion juice.

Mix the ingredients in the order named, and stir until well mixed. For variety add to two cupfuls of potato one-half cupful of cold beet dice (cooked) and two tablespoons chopped parsley or cheese; carrots and a little chopped celery leaf may be used if preferred.

Many cooked or canned left-over vegetables may be attractively used for salads. Dice of turnips and carrots cut in fancy shapes are often used in potato salad. Left-over beans, peas, etc., may be used to fill tomato cups and served with a French or a mayonnaise dressing.—U. S. Agricultural Dept. Weekly Letter.

OSSIFIED BOY GETS NORMAL AGAIN

Merle Rea, the thirteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Rea of near Enid, Okla., who attracted nationwide attention a few months ago as the "ossified" boy, is rapidly regaining his normal health and the "os-sified" condition of his body is disappearing. This boy was afflicted in a way that was a puzzle to all the physicians who examined him, and there was never a man for a long time who would even attempt a diagnosis of the disease. The boy was almost a "human rock."

Some time before the disease made its appearance he received a fall from a second-story building, striking on his back and shoulders. He apparently was not seriously injured at the time, but some time later his mother, in washing him, noticed that there was a hard place on the back of his neck. Soon this became very noticeable and began to spread. The boy's body was literally petrifying. His skin became so hard from the top of his head to the soles of his feet that he was not able to move around at all. Then the disease began to spread to his internal organs and the flesh of his body. His tongue became hardened so that he couldn't move it at all.

About that time physicians all over the western part of the United States became interested in the case and a number of clinics were held and the lad examined in every way. However, according to them, there was never a parallel case before in the history of medicine.

Finally a treatment was taken up on the supposition that the lad had been injured in the fall and that there was a spinal cord pressure that was in some way tying up the muscular action to an extent that the part of the body affected was simply dying.

Apparently the guess was correct, for the body responded to the treatment, and the lad now is almost well. His disease in the first place and then the apparent cure, form one of the most amazing cases science has a record of.

BASEBALL

South City Merchants Fail to Show
Real "Pep" and Lose to Melrose Team.

Last Sunday's game at Melrose was the poorest game the South City Merchants put up this year. There was no hitting nor fielding from the local boys. Steele was in the box, but his speed was too much for Merritt. It was tough, that's all, tough.

But losing a ball game is nothing. Charles Storek says the Phillies lost four games in a row. "Silence" is right, as it cost the Phillies the series. The South City Merchants only lost four games this season. They won fourteen. Now who should worry over a lost game?

To-morrow the boys will travel back to Melrose to play the Fruitvale Merchants at 2:30 p. m.

DELIGHTFUL SURPRISE PARTY.

Last night a very enjoyable farewell surprise party was tendered Leon De Lange, who will leave for Bremerton to-day, by his many friends at Guild Hall. Leon was taken so by surprise he was speechless, but soon recovered. There were all kinds of games played, also singing and dancing. Later on in the evening refreshments were served. Those who attended were: The Misses Olga and Edith Bortoli, Mary and Emma Welte, Dora and Rita Schmidt, Rita and Lucy Fleming, Florence Robinson, Alice Stearns, Elenine Meehan, Corabelle Veit, Fern Kiessling, Lillian Christian, Marie Smith, Lizzie Goggins, Alice McGrath, Emily Fourcans, Doris Drewick, Emily De Lange; Messrs. Fred and Tom Schmidt, Jim and John McDonald, William, Henry and Martin Hyland, Eddie Welcher, Frank Cherry, Charles Dovin, Eddie Meehan, Willie McGrath, Joe Machado, Eddie Westley, Alex Welte, Leon De Lange, Ernest Langenbach, Newell Stearns, Pete Stocker, Thomas Spellman, William Veit, Pat Bowler, Roy Morton, Frank Robinson and Charles Storek.

SAN BRUNO WANTS NEW SCHOOL HOUSE

The mass meeting held in the school house in San Bruno last Saturday was well attended. The mothers turned out in large numbers and never missed an opportunity to show their approval of the points made by the speakers in favor of building a new school house in San Bruno on the east side of the railroad tracks. Fifty small children from the east side sat in the rest-room and voiced the expression of an inscription on the wall which read, "We Want a School House Near Our Homes."

G. H. Bell presided and J. J. Hearne was secretary. Visitors from near-by towns were present, and upon invitation to speak helped the cause along by showing where the towns in which they live further down the Peninsula were confronted with the same conditions as exist in San Bruno. They were compelled to provide school houses to meet the requirements. They also showed that it was a paying investment, for the section benefited took on new life. Homes sprang up and improvements followed.

A good representation of residents from all of the additions spoke and were all in favor of the building of the school.

San Bruno's reputation for progressiveness is well known and no fear is entertained that the bond issue will not carry. Nearly 400 voters signed the petition for the new school house and not one objected.

At the close of the meeting a motion was made that the actions of the committee be approved and they continue their work until the desired end be accomplished. A rising vote was taken, which was unanimous.

(The advertisement calling the bond election is published on another page of the The Enterprise.—Editor.)

FRATERNAL ORDERS

(By Harry Edwards.)

It is not the critic that counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly with errors and comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly; so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory or defeat.

Impd. Order of Red Men.

State Organizer A. L. Paye has been visiting the hunting grounds of Tippecanoe Tribe, No. 111, South San Francisco, during the last and present moon. He is built along the lines of a former sheriff of San Mateo county and acts the part well, for during his visits he may be said to have captured many palefaces. He has rounded up twenty victims who, on Thursday evening next in Metropolitan Hall, will promise to follow the hunt in the capture of other palefaces for the good of the order.

The total membership of all the tribes throughout the great reservation amounts to 550,000.

Herewith we give reasons why you should belong to this splendid order:

1. It is the largest American fraternity.
2. Its founders were the patriots of 1776.
3. It preserves American traditions.
4. It admits only white American citizens.
5. It exists only under the American flag.
6. It requires you to take no obligation interfering with your religious or political beliefs.
7. Its ceremonies are aboriginal, dramatic, beautiful and historical.
8. It is original, patriotic and charitable.
9. It is humanitarian, educational, beneficial and social.
10. It eliminates class distinctions and brings its members into the closest bonds of fraternal co-operation.
11. It numbers in its membership ex-presidents of the United States, senators, in short, all other classes of self-supporting and respectable citizens.
12. It cares for its sick and distressed and buries its dead.
13. It places the orphans of its members in homes, not asylums, and guards their interests in a systematic manner.
14. It is good enough for any American. No American is too good for it.

What more can we say, save that the charter is now open and $5 will admit you, other things being equal. If you are physically able to pass the test and an American citizen, why not become a Red Man? Freedom, Friendship and Charity are the cornerstones of this great fraternity.

Thursday evening next the charter will close, after which the old rate of $10 will prevail.

Arrangements are being made and practically concluded for the prize drill team of San Francisco to put on the work. A special car will convey them to the local hunting grounds, and from their arrival to departure there will be something doing. That drill team will own the wigwam and may be the town.

I. O. F.

(By George W. Hagedorn.)

Widows and Orphans' Day at the P. P. I. E., Saturday, October 23, 1915, under the auspices of the high chief ranger, Court San Francisco, assisted by Companion Court Golden Gate, Independent Order of Foresters, all widows and orphans of our deceased members in the bay counties who are not in a position to visit our great exposition, or all those who have only been permitted inside the gates a limited number of times, are asked to communicate at once with Brother J. P. Murphy, No. 434 Arguello boulevard, San Francisco. Arrangements will be made for their complimentary entertainment on the above date.

Lawn party, bay excursions, zone concessions and other features that will eliminate for at least one day the care and troubles of this life.

All members are asked to interest themselves in this event and send in names and addresses of those to whom the above applies. Party will convene at Fillmore street entrance at 10 a. m. sharp. Late comers report at I. O. F. exhibit, mines building, second street, between B and C.

Every one connected with the exposition finds in time that he has become a semi-official information bureau. A woman stopped the train, which was heavily loaded with passengers, and inquired the way to the food products building. The passengers waited patiently until the woman was satisfied. Then she said: "I have lost my husband. If you see a man in a black hat, who has lost his wife, will you tell him that I will be waiting for him in front of the California building?"

Our great modernized institutions, with their profound theoretic rot, would do well to stop enumerating with emphasis the things they do not believe, and lead the way to the things of God that time cannot change or eternity destroy. "Terra firma" is what the people want, or something to cling to that will assure them of that promised rest and inward peace of which they are in such crying need. The opportunity to enroll and enjoy the protection and peace of mind that goes with the sick, surgical, tubercular, orphan and death benefits can be had in South San Francisco, where fraternity abounds.

REFERENDUM LAW NOT FOR STREET WORK

The state court of appeals has rendered a decision supporting the contention that the referendum law did not apply to street work proceedings. The case is that of Chase vs. Kalber, arising from a controversy over street work in Rio Vista.

Last spring the court rendered a decision to the effect that the referendum affected the work and invalidated the proceedings. The result of the decision was to jeopardize the legality of contracts all over the state. A rehearing was granted and new arguments presented by several attorneys, with the result that the court reverses itself. The case has attracted a great deal of interest among attorneys throughout California.

COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

The county board of supervisors met in regular session in Redwood City last Monday.

After disposing of considerable routine business, the following resolution, introduced by Supervisor Casey and seconded by Supervisor Brown, was adopted:

Whereas, This board fully realizes its loss as well as the loss to San Mateo county in the death of George L. Perham, who died on Saturday, October 9, 1915, and

Whereas, Said George L. Perham, during the two years last past, has been most faithful and efficient in his capacity as a member of the roads advisory board of San Mateo county; and

Whereas, Mr. Perham, for years past, has been a public-spirited, honorable and leading citizen of San Mateo county; be it

Resolved, That this board express its feelings of respect for the work of Mr. Perham in behalf of San Mateo county and for him as a citizen; and be it further

Resolved, That this board extend its deepest sympathy to the family and friends of Mr. Perham in their loss; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be made a record of this board and be offered to the public press of San Mateo county.

Unanimously passed and adopted this 11th day of October, 1915.

On motion of Supervisor Casey, seconded by Supervisor Brown, the board adjourned at 12:05 p. m. out of respect to the memory of the late George L. Perham.

For the purpose of taking up the matter of the county traffic ordinance, the board will convene on next Monday, October 18th, at 9 a. m., instead of 10 a. m.

RECEPTION IN BURRESS HOME IN SAN BRUNO

George Watkins and Mrs. M. E. Burress gave a charming reception to about seventy-five of their friends at the Burress home in San Bruno, October 2d, which was in honor of their birthdays. An elaborate supper was served at midnight, at which songs and a speech from Shakespeare were rendered. A three-piece orchestra from San Francisco furnished music for dancing until the wee hours of the morning, the merry crowd departing in the best of spirits to their various homes in San Francisco, with the exception of a few friends from San Bruno and South San Francisco.

Trebizond the Ancient

Years! Years! What are years? Only 365 days! What are 365 days, or any combinations of 365 days, compared with the unutterable past, whose dust is being stirred by Europe's war, says Walter H. Main in the Utica Globe.

It was a mere pebble in a mill pond—that assassination of a petty ruler last summer—but the ripples it started have not yet begun to lap the shores of the sea of time along which shades of the past hover, nodding to one another that humanity is ever the same, always seeking, always avaricious, always as ready to kill as was Genghis Khan, who slew his 5,000,000 or 6,000,000 and wept for more.

Take that single city of Trebizond there on the Black Sea, of which we have heardly heard, of whose past we know nothing, and for whose trade Turkey and Russia are struggling. What is the commerce of New York for a single century compared with the commerce of Trebizond for countless ages?

We look with veneration on a building a century old; the Magna Charta we look upon with its 700 years as of unspeakable antiquity; but here is a city whose past trails off into the dim realms of myth, to the tombs of Pharaohs, to antiquity that ends in fancy.

It was 1492 when Columbus stumbled on San Salvador and marked the beginning of our four centuries of continental history, four centuries that seem an interminable past to us, but which are as a dream which passeth in the night for Trebizond and its hinterland. In fact America would not have been disclosed for many years had it not been for the trade of Trebizond. For Trebizond has been the outlet to the western world of the wonderful treasures of the inscrutable east.

Was Great Trade Center.

To Trebizond old Genoa turned when it wrested the sea power of the world from old Venice. Many nations traded with Trebizond in its eventful past and every one in turn waxed fat and prosperous and fell, until the Turk came to control the Dardanelles in 1453, and now Russia seeks to own the Black Sea.

It was because the Ottoman choked other traders that Columbus, the son of proud, rich Genoa, sought an all-water route to the east.

When the first prow from Europe grated on the shore of the China sea and found the coral reefs of India, then began to dwindle that caravan trade which for ages beyond number had brought all the orient, all Cathay westward in the shortest way. Then was doomed the camel traffic. It still persists; long strings of camels from the orient still tread the streets of Trebizond, but there is a railroad that brings goods to Batum, in Russian territory, faster than camels can travel, and Batum has the trade.

But Trebizond is still a metropolis, and the dust of Trebizond which is disturbed by the war strife carries with it the romance of the race and brings up a mirage to the fancy that includes the brave figures of a past as old as humanity.

Better fifty years of Europe
Than a cycle of Cathay.

So sang Tennyson, but the cycles of Cathay, for all that, have tremendous human interest, could we but fathom them and read their story. It is the dust of the desert that settled about Trebizond, dust that Russian and Turk are stirring up in the final struggle of the Ottoman to stem the invasion that would wrest from him the last remnant of his once powerful sway.

Mysticism of Far Cathay.

When you feel that dust of ages rising and smell the sandalwood and spicery of the east and the same pungent odor of the camels that you may have noticed in new America on circus day, you lose all sense of time; you lose view of the land beyond the western sea, the land America, so with a mere two or three centuries behind it; you lose all tangible things; you become infected with the mysticism of the east. For the nonce you forget time; you are transported to the Bagdad of the Arabian Nights; you remember Harun al Rashid, Genghis Khan and the rest of the half-real, half-mythical beings that peopled the fanciful days of your childhood when you lived within the pages of romance and the tales of wonder from the east captivated you.

But the trail does not stop there with the heroes of the tales that came to barbarian Europe just before modern life dawned, when the Marco Polos boldly penetrated past the gates to the east. The dust of the city of Trebizond, which lies thick, dates back beyond the Crusaders. The bridles of their horses jingled, the armor of the warriors of the cross rattled within this same city of Trebizond there on the Black Sea.

Romance in Its Spicery.

Try to read its story as a history and you are hopelessly lost in a list of meaningless names. Absorb it as a romance, as you absorb India in Kipling's "Kim," and the city of Trebizond is of entrancing interest.

When mankind began to fare thither to barter no man knows. The beginnings of time find him there. Jason and his argonauts there got the myth of the golden fleece, and the golden fleece was so old in Greece that it faded out of history and dissolved into the mythology of the gods.

The earliest navigators, the Phoenicians, plied the Black Sea and did carrying trade for the caravans from the east. Then Britain was but a wild place, inhabited by savages, where the low, black ships of the Phoenicians got tin from the mines to trade at Trebizond for the jewels of India and China. Britain we consider old, with its ruins, about which cling the story of the Roman soldiers. But this was even before Rome entered the world stage. It was when Hiram of Tyre was bringing cedar for Solomon to build his temple. It was when Joseph was the wheat king of Egypt and before then, even. It was—heaven knows when it was. Trebizond was a metropolis when the earliest man in the west and his womankind began to covet the silk and gold and jade and perfumes of the east. Even Egypt, the Egypt of 5000 years ago, was a flippant youth when the orient was hoary with age—not hoary with years, years are not a measurable standard to use—hoary with age, eons and eons of time.

So, as the Turk crouches in his little remaining corner of Asia Minor, the Turk of the third Turkish invasion of the region about Trebizond—as the Turk tries to stand off the Russian glacier which is grinding its inexorable way down from the frozen north, we may well wonder at the haze of mystery that appears in the dust that the warring hosts raise in that venerable section.

Bound the West to the East.

The dust of Trebizond was tracked there by countless caravans of patient camels through countless centuries. The route they followed was the slender thread of trail that for centuries bound together the east and west—the west vigorous in its crude barbarity, ornamenting itself with the jewels and silks of the east.

Between the avarice of the west and the riches of the east nature had put a barrier of mountain and desert which could be penetrated at only a few places. Unerringly, with the experience of ages, the caravan leaders picked the trail. It ran south 600 miles from Trebizond to Bagdad, the Bagdad of the Arabian Nights and Harun al Rashid; it broke over into Persia on the east and ran 350 miles to Ispahan; then wound among the mountains and plains east, always east, 750 miles to Kandahar in Afghanistan; then up to Kabul 400 miles farther and to Jelalabad and through old Kyber pass into India—a full 2000 miles as the camel trails.

At Khyber pass the caravans divided, going into far Cathay, into Cashmere's lovely vales, sung by Lalla Rook's minstrel pince, to mysterious Mongolia, to all the oldest tribes on earth, who made the luxuries for the rest of the world.

This is the storied city, whose dust is being stirred by the warriors of this the twentieth century. Perhaps the very gunpowder that may yet awaken the echoes in the old camel-trod streets is now being made in a factory in that crude, upstart land, America, which Columbus stumbled on when he was hunting around for a way to circumvent the Ottoman, to beat the camel drivers by getting there with a ship.

OLD MAN'S PLEA FOR A DARLING WAS A JOKE

Ellendale, Del.—Willard S. Dickerson, the prosperous Ellendale farmer who has been receiving many letters from girls who replied to his desire for "an old man's darling," tells his own story this week in a lower Delaware weekly paper under the name of Paul Pry, under which nom de plume he has been writing articles in lower Delaware for many years. He writes:

"Holy Moses, what a notoriety and a lot of cheap advertising we have gained with a big laugh and lots of amusement from the simple compliment we paid the pretty visitor to our daughter in our usual Chronicle letter of two weeks ago.

"We have received more than fifty letters, many containing pictures of beautiful women of all ages from 17 to 60 years of age, and of every nationality even to a mulatto, wondering if we were white or black. Many of these pitiful tales touch our sympathies, and we wish that we could give them all homes.

"One sad widow with nine children, six of whom are boys, would marry anything in order to have the boys raised on a farm. Many are grass widows, while the majority are divorcees who wish to try it again. All wish a charming life on a Delaware farm as an old man's darling, and each one is sure that she is very handsome and will suit. Strange to say, the only one who has aroused our contempt as an impostor and a fraud is a Delaware school teacher summing at Rehoboth.

"We have received many from school teachers in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, whose beautiful writing and sweet sentiment swell the old man's heart. Who could stand the temptation to answer? We are not seeking a wife by any means, but we acknowledge our weakness, and have been quietly answering some of these nice letters, principally those containing pretty pictures. These have answered our letter in glowing terms of affection. Great Scott, but they are hot stuff and sweet as pie; who knows what the future will bring forth?

"The pretty ones in their teens we have turned over to our boy of 20, and we are ashamed to say that he can beat the old dad all to pieces. One already is about to make a match. We give them the cake and take a back seat. We are not up to date with young America. We must say we have had one lady who motored here in person with the paper in hand to press her claims for the prize in real earnest business style."

SANITARY INSPECTOR VISITS TAHOE RESORTS

As a part of its campaign for improving the sanitation of summer resorts in California, the state board of health has recently sent its sanitary inspector, Edward T. Ross, to the Lake Tahoe region, where he made inspections of sixteen resorts around the lake as well as six resorts on the Placerville road in El Dorado county.

Insanitary conditions were found in eighteen out of the twenty-two places visited, the most common fault relating to stream pollution. In some places privies were placed directly over running streams; hog pens were found on the banks, and sewage from some resorts was flowing into Lake Tahoe or its tributaries. Such pollution not only creates a nuisance, but is also a distinct menace to the health of persons who drink from these beautiful mountain lakes or streams. Besides, such pollution of streams and lakes is a direct violation of state law.

Sanitary conditions at Tahoe Tavern, Pomin's Resort, Al Tahoe Inn and at Homewood Resort met with the approval of the inspector. Instructions for improving conditions at eighteen resorts which did not come up to the required standard were given to the owners, who were glad to receive the expert information furnished by Mr. Ross. They willingly agreed to make the changes required and will have ample opportunity to do so before the 1916 season opens, at which time Mr. Ross will make a reinspection. In no case will sewerage into Lake Tahoe or its tributaries be permitted. Accordingly, in most instances, resorts were instructed to provide sanitary toilets and to dispose of sewage in septic tanks or leaching cesspools, situated at least 200 feet from lakes or streams.

It was found also that a number of places were dumping garbage and rubbish in the brush near the camps. This procedure frequently resulted in a breeding place for flies and also became an eyesore. Rubbish and garbage will be required to be buried or burned.

Through the systematic inspections of Mr. Ross, the state board of health is bringing about the correction of insanitary conditions at summer resorts and thereby markedly lessening the conditions responsible for "vacation typhoid." By looking after the summer resorts, the board will lessen the typhoid fever death rate in our cities as well as in our rural districts.

A Gallon of Gasoline.

A single gallon of gasoline will do wonders almost anywhere, but nowhere has it been applied to better purpose than on the farm. Here are some of its stunts. It will milk 300 cows, bale four tons of hay, mix thirty-five yards of cement, move a ton truck fourteen miles, plow three-fifths of an acre of land and make enough electricity to keep eight lights going in the farmhouse for thirty days.

Good-bye to boyhood memories of turning the grindstone.

How Was She to Know.

Mrs. Williams, who had recently returned from abroad, was attending an afternoon tea which was given in her honor.

"And did you actually go to Rome?" asked the hostess.

"I really don't know, my dear," replied Mrs. Williams. "You see, my husband always bought the tickets."

LOCAL HAPPENINGS TOLD IN BRIEF

berg will visit the exposition while here.

There will be a meeting of Hose Company No. 1 on Wednesday, October 27th. All members should attend and have a good meeting.

Bob Gough, employed at the Fuller paint works and who has been residing in San Francisco, has moved to the Metropolitan Hotel in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Cloyes and G. Stoneking took a trip last Saturday in a Ford machine to Sacramento, by way of Stockton, and returned on Sunday.

John Dooley of East St. Louis, Ill., has moved to this city and is stopping at the Metropolitan Hotel. Mr. Dooley is a steel worker and will be employed at the local plant.

It has been suggested that the city board of trustees perfect arrangements to have a dedicatory celebration on the opening of the new city free library.

City Health Officer Ivan W. Keith, City Marshal H. Kneese and a representative of The Enterprise made an investigation of the local jail and found it in a fair condition.

Frank Orwig, an old-time resident of this city, who worked at the Western Meat Company's plant, is visiting here this week. Mr. Orwig is from Fort Warden, Washington.

Charles Fenger and Adolph Wolgeven, formerly of the Linden Hotel in this city, are in the restaurant business on Mission street, between Eighth and Ninth, San Francisco.

Dan McSweeney, A. L. Paye, George H. Wallace, H. Heiner of Redwood City and James Wallace took a trip to La Honda on a hunting trip yesterday and returned last evening.

Brady Wolf and family, who have been residing in San Francisco, have returned to this city to live in the Patchell house at the northeast corner of Eucalyptus and Miller avenues.

Miss Silva Daneri of Halfmoon Bay and her niece, Miss Bernice Sorrocco, were visiting this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emile Daneri in this city. Miss Daneri is a sister of Mr. Daneri.

Tom Burke, employed at the W. P. Fuller & Co. paint works, accidentally ran a nail in his right foot on Wednesday. Blood poisoning set in, but he is getting along as well as can be expected.

William Farrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Farrell of this city, was in town visiting his parents on Wednesday. William is now steward on the steamship Manchuria and is going on his second trip.

The local aerie of Eagles will give a grand masque ball on November 3d.

Fred Brown, who accidentally fell while repairing the Monize house in the northern part of the city and strained his back, is getting along nicely.

Harry Harder of this city, while fishing last Sunday morning, left his motorcycle on the bay shore road at the first tunnel of the Southern Pacific company. When he returned some one had stolen his machine. It has not been recovered.

G. Woodbeck was arrested by Constable Wallace last Sunday evening for threatening the life of his father in San Bruno. Woodbeck was taken to Redwood City, but was released on probation and told to keep away from his father's house.

A party of young folks, consisting of Misses Florence Robinson, Emma Welty, Fern Kiessling and Patrick Bowler, took a trip to the California building on Tuesday night last to attend the Knights of Columbus ball. They all report having a very enjoyable time.

Mike Lee, heater at the steel plant, who had his eye injured lately and who was confined at St. Mary's Hospital in San Francisco, had his eye removed and is getting along nicely.

Charles Fenger Jr., formerly of this city, in company with C. Haines, both of San Francisco, were in town on Wednesday.

The dance given by the Blue Birds last Saturday evening was a grand success. The hall was crowded and all had a very enjoyable time. The management was very sorry the last car was not able to stay until 3 a. m.,

CASHIER WM. M. ROBERTS ARRESTED AND JAILED

William M. Roberts, for nine years cashier of the National Bank of San Mateo, was arrested in San Francisco last Monday on a federal warrant charging embezzlement. It is charged Roberts appropriated $12,000 belonging to the bank.

Officials of the bank said Roberts' defalcations amount to approximately $20,000, but the bank is liable for but $12,500. He secured the money, it is alleged, by forging names of customers of the bank to notes and checks and using them only for his own purposes. Officials said forgery charges may follow. Bail was fixed at $10,000.

Roberts is 65 years old and has a wife and three children.

Roberts resigned from the National Bank of San Mateo last week. He was arrested in a club in San Francisco and immediately taken before the United States commissioner.

The embezzlements charged to him took place on June 22d and July 25th. On the former date $3000 was taken and $16,500 on the latter.

The officials of the bank reiterate that the shortage due to Roberts' peculations is entirely covered by a surety bond. One of the bank officials attributes Roberts' trouble to investments which were entirely too speculative for a man of Roberts' financial resources to assume. It is said that Roberts had personally borrowed some money from individuals in San Mateo, but these negotiations had nothing whatsoever to do with the bank.

An hour after his arrest Roberts was arraigned before United States Commissioner Krull, who fixed the bail at $10,000. Roberts made no effort to obtain bail immediately and was incarcerated in the county jail. At the jail Roberts was exceedingly nervous. After being in his cell a while he became more composed and refused to talk.

Roberts' wife was prostrated by the news of her husband's arrest, his trouble not being known to her. Roberts has three children, Marjorie, 19, Gordon, 18, and Leslie, 16.

Roberts and his family were very well known in San Mateo, and were prominent in social affairs.

On Wednesday, Roberts assigned to the bank six pieces of property located in this county. H. C. Ross, president of the bank, said that the action was merely a bank transaction, the property in question having stood but nominally in Roberts' name.

Roberts also filed two other deeds, one to John S. Van Winkle of Burlingame, and another to Mrs. Edith Palmer of London.

Accompanied by his legal adviser, Edward C. Harrison, William M. Roberts, who is charged with embezzling $12,500 while acting in the capacity of cashier of the National Bank of San Mateo, appeared yesterday in San Francisco before United States Commissioner Krull and waived his rights for a preliminary as they can not pass on to the main line at Holy Cross on account of repair work and the car crew could not get home.

Lester Harris of this city was operated on Friday evening and had his tonsils removed at the local hospital. He is doing nicely.

Married—In San Francisco, September 21, 1915, Miss Leone Reton of San Diego and Steve Nyland of this city. The happy couple are stopping at the Metropolitan Hotel. Mr. Nyland is a steel worker at the local plant. Miss Reton came up from San Diego to visit the exposition, but met her friend and intended husband, which resulted in their marriage.

City Marshal Kneese has recovered several articles, consisting of fishing reels, lines, flies and hooks, valued at about $20, which were stolen from Dr. A. R. Powers' garage on Baden avenue some time ago. An auto tire was stolen at the same time, but no trace of it can be found. It was learned that a young boy named Joseph Pacheco took the articles. The case has been referred to E. E. Cunningham, county probation committeeman for this city.

hearing. His case will now be investigated by the federal grand jury, and it is likely that he will be indicted Monday. Roberts, on the counsel of his attorney, refuses to make a statement to the press. Attorney Harrison is a cousin of the former cashier.

The maximum penalty for the offense that Roberts committed is ten years, and the minimum is five years.

Several people with whom Roberts has had dealings are anxious for an accounting and it is said that Roberts is hopeful of making out a report within the next week.

The National Bank of San Mateo on Thursday placed on record in Oakland a deed given by Roberts and his wife to the bank September 20th, conveying their remaining interest in 320 acres of land situated between Livermore and Altamont. A nominal consideration of $10 was given.

ELECTRICAL FIXTURES INSTALLED IN CITY FREE LIBRARY

The installation of all lighting fixtures at the free public library in this city was completed by the Electric Shop last Thursday.

They are modern and up-to-date, the lamps being of an efficient type.

The stairway entrance is lighted with two weather-proof electric standards, verde antique finish, with 16x8 inch alabaster glass balls, each containing one 60-watt mazda lamp.

The entrance vestibule is lighted with one electric hanger, verde antique finish, with a 12x16 inch stalactite globe, with one 60-watt mazda lamp.

The delivery desk, stack room, juvenile reading room and reference room are lighted with same style fixtures, mostly glass, each fixture having two large glass reflectors. The bottom reflector is 11 inches in diameter and the top one 20 inches in diameter. The bottom reflector is inverted, the lamp inside giving the desired indirect lighting. No shadow is thrown on the ceiling or walls, owing to the fact that both reflectors are of a very high grade glass. Each fixture contains one 100-watt nitrogen lamp.

The lecture room in the basement is lighted with six ceiling fixtures, white enamel finish and indirect bowl. Each fixture contains one 100-watt nitrogen lamp.

The stage, receiving room, heater room and storage room are lighted with small ceiling receptacles, with 60-watt mazda lamps.

The whole system is an example of good lighting.

SUPERIOR COURT NOTES.

Peter Decker of this city has brought an action in the superior court for an interlocutory decree of divorce against his wife, Anna Decker. The Deckers were married in Ohio on May 19, 1903. Defendant deserted her husband in 1911. There are no children as a result of the marriage. The community property consists of certain lots in Oregon, valued at $550. Plaintiff asks to be awarded the realty.

Speed an Essential.

Rankin—Beanbrough has bought himself a $5000 racing car.

Phyle—But he can't afford one worth half that.

Rankin—That's why he bought it. He wants something that can go fast enough to keep away from the collectors.

"Now, my good man, before we start out in your machine let us understand each other perfectly."

"Well, what is it?"

"I am not desirous of seeing how fast you can drive this car; it is the scenery I wish to see."

Her Father—You've been calling on my daughter for some time, young man. Why don't you come down to business?

Suitor—Very well. How much are you going to leave her?

Lady (in furniture store, to new clerk)—Where are those handsome sideboards that you had last week?

Clerk (embarrassed)—Oh, I—er—I shaved them off day before yesterday, ma'am.—Life.

JAIL BREAKER SMITH ARRESTED IN DALY CITY

James Smith, a young man arrested some months ago for stealing an automobile in Daly City, and who escaped from the county jail with Lewis Markin, the local street car bandit and counterfeiter, was arrested on Wednesday in Daly City by Constable A. Landini.

Smith stated that he had just reached San Francisco a few hours before, coming there from Colorado, where he had been working in the hay fields. He arrived in the metropolis at 8:20 o'clock in the morning. In the afternoon he decided to go back to his haunts in Daly City, and there was his old Nemesis.

Smith is now in the county jail at Redwood City. He explained how he and Markin escaped. According to his tale, Markin had a piece of steel blade and by nicking it with a stove poker they were able to use it as an improvised saw. With that crude instrument they cut the bars of the tank and made their getaway.

Markin is now being tried in Spokane for an offense similar to the one which he committed in this city. He endeavored to escape from a deputy sheriff there two weeks ago and was shot and almost drowned in a river before he surrendered to the officers who pursued him.

Smith will be tried for grand larceny and jail breaking.

SAN BRUNO REAL ESTATE.
